

Anticlock wise

The corporate wheel runs like clockwork. It starts in the morning and for most, ends at seventeen hundred hours, and starts all over again the next day. It is cold and covered with greys and blacks, which represent conformity, hierarchy, order and professionalism.

The Anticlock wise rotation on the other hand is based on creativity, giving us the ability to generate quality design concepts that convey the message of a client's brand, as more often than not, we have come to realise that the professional appearance at face value, is not always reflected in the brand image.

Anticlock wise is a design company based in Soweto that offers industry level Graphic, Web and Interior Design services, and has recently expanded its services to Branding and Printing.

Our mission is to create awareness about the importance of a brand image design, as this influences a potential client's decision on whether they will or will not do business with you.

We at Anticlock wise have identified these needs and are available and dedicated to providing great design and printing solutions.

"Good design is not only aesthetically pleasing, but also functional.

Great design is not only these qualities but also improves a way of life.

Anticlock wise design pushes boundaries to achieve all of the above."
